

24 WAYS TO USE NOTEBOOKLM AS AN EDUCATOR

Upload Lesson Resources

Add PDFs, slides & docs as a single source of truth.

Website as source

Add URLs directly to ground responses in live web content.

Book & article summary

Upload reading & get grounded summaries with source citations.

Research synthesis

Upload multiple studies & compare findings side by side.

Research Hub

Centralise CPD reading, reports & policy docs in one notebook.

Cross-curricular links

Find connections across multiple subject source documents.

Lesson plan drafting

Chat with your sources to draft structured lesson plans.

Scheme of work builder

Use curriculum docs as sources to structure learning sequences.

Differentiation ideas

Ask for scaffold or stretch tasks grounded in your own content.

Glossary Generator

Extract key vocabulary & definitions from subject content.

Discussion prompts

Pull thought-provoking questions directly from any source.

Presentation prep

Chat with your sources to build talk outlines & key points.

Create quiz questions

Generate grounded Q&A directly from uploaded source documents.

Study guide for pupils

Generate revision summaries from your actual class content.

Peer review scaffolds

Create criteria-based peer feedback frames from mark schemes.

Data interpretation

Upload anonymised assessment data & ask questions to spot patterns.

Report writing support

Chat with anonymised pupil notes & data to inform written reports.

Audio overviews

Generate podcast-style summaries pupils can listen to.

Staff CPD podcast

Turn research papers into audio for staff professional development.

Meeting notes analysis

Upload meeting notes & extract key actions, decisions & themes.

Policy breakdown

Upload KCSIE or DfE docs & ask plain-English questions.

SDP analysis

Chat with our school development plan to track priorities.

Safeguarding research

Upload guidance docs & query specific scenarios safely.

Parent communication

Draft newsletters grounded in your own school policies & docs.